EXPORT OF POWER DEFEATED MONDAY

HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS IN OXFORD COUNTY

Every day, twenty-eight women in Oxford County write in a certain little brown book, their expenses of the day. The little brown book is called "The Farm Household Account Book" and is loaned to these twenty-eight women by the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Service.

Five of these women have used a little brown book from the Extension Service for five years, going onto the sixth. What do these women say about them? "The book is well divided to take care of our expenses." "We have often saved money by referring to our past accounts." "My husband and I find the account book a big help and I enjoy keeping it."

The Home Demonstration Agent has called on nearly all of the account co-operators this summer and pleasant indeed, were these calls. Just whether farmers were clothing or operating expenses had to be settled; and since they were not wearing apparel and I always an "operation" a new column "personal" had to be made.

The women do not keep the books alone. It is only where the husband and wife are partners in the family business that the account keeping works.

Next April more will be told about the records kept by these 28 Oxford County families. At that time the books will be summarized at the county level and the summaries returned to the 28 families so that they will have a complete story of their finances for 1929.

Those who want to borrow books for 1930-1931 will start again April 1, 1930.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Anglo-American Agreement on Naval Limitation Getting Nearer.

BY EDWARD W. PICKARD

RAMSAY MACDONALD, prime minister of Great Britain, told the assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva that he and Ambassador Davies in their many conversations concerning naval armament limitation had reached an accord on seventeen of the twenty points under consideration, and that he hoped to be able very soon to announce a full settlement. But dispatches from Washington and Geneva indicated that the other points remained were still important and that on these Great Britain and the United States were still far apart. They involve questions of vessels armed with aircraft and the comparative fighting values of vessels armed with aircraft and guns. General Davies sent a long communication to the State department and it was considered at a White House breakfast attended by Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams and the members of the navy general board. Cruise tonnage figures were not made public, but it was learned that the British cruiser requirements, though less than in 1927, were still far above the tonnage figures favored by President Hoover and would not give parity for the United States even if all our fifteen cruisers are built. The British insist they must have a large number of small cruisers, outside of the forty figures, to protect the world's sea lanes and protect British shipping.

Both Mr. Macdonald in Geneva and American officials in Washington were hopeful that the points of difference could be adjusted, and the prime minister said that as soon as this was accomplished he would formally announce his intention of visiting the United States to confer with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson.

Arthur H. Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, in the League to a meeting for the purpose of hearing the plans for a general economic and social conference of European powers. He noted the delegates to adjust the differences between the governments and said that the proposed federation is not aimed against the interests of the United States of America. Both Ramsey Macdonald and Dr. Gustav Stresemann seemed to like Hays's plan.

THAT the League of Nations would adopt the Kellogg pact outlawing war as its policy was a probability, made strong by the fact that such a course was said to be favored by Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany and Japan. In the opening speech before the assembly President Hoover declared the pact was really framed in the minds of the League and, following the Foreign Minister Hymans of Belgium, advocated a closer thinking of the pact with the consent of the League. He held the League was infinitely stronger than the Kellogg pact because it interdicted all wars of aggression while the Kellogg pact left the door open to wars of self-defense. The Kellogg pact was infinitely stronger than the Kellogg pact because it interdicted all wars of aggression while the Kellogg pact left the door open to wars of self-defense. The Kellogg pact was infinitely stronger than the Kellogg pact because it interdicted all wars of aggression while the Kellogg pact left the door open to wars of self-defense.

A MEMORANDUM of the United States to the World Court for International Justice came a big step nearer when delegates of forty countries here today accepted the League of Nations pact, which was later approved by the assembly of the League of Nations. The United States government was officially notified of this action.

FOREIGN MINISTER STRES MAN of Germany and the fellow delegates to the reparations conference at The Hague reported the results to the German cabinet and received the unanimous approval of the other ministers. The cabinet agreed to take all necessary measures to make the German people realize that the League agreement really represents a step forward, and not a defeat as the German nationalists are trying to label it.

In his address before the league assembly Premier Briand of France declared that at the reparations conference he would have been untrue to peace and concord if he had allowed "several millions of money" to prevent France from helping to liquidate the problems of the great war. Had he held back on concessions he would not have been entitled to be welcomed back to France. The nations must be ready to make concessions.

Orders for evacuation of the Rhineland by the British and Belgian forces have been issued, and the French are preparing to get out as soon as they can conveniently.

VIGOROUS action by the British government to bring about a partial cessation of the hostilities in most parts of Palestine and the Arabs were beginning to realize that England meant to make good on her pledge to protect the Jews there. But all around Italy Land there was seething revolt among the Moslems. Floods of propaganda proclamations were scattered among the Arabs of bordering states calling on them to engage in a holy war to help their fellow Moslems in Palestine.

The British colonial office appointed a commission to investigate the race war, but announced that "no inquiry is contemplated which might alter the position of this country in regard to the mandate or the policy laid down by the council of the League of Nations in 1917 and embodied in the mandate of establishing Palestine as a national home for the Jews."

FOR a few days it seemed likely that negotiations, conducted in Berlin, would bring about an agreement between Russia and China concerning the Chinese Eastern railroad and perhaps the threat of war. But the plan failed, at least temporarily, and both nations continued to concentrate their forces on the Manchurian frontier. A late dispatch reached London from Tientsin saying that 2000 Soviet soldiers had invaded Shingling, Manchuria, and were marching on Hsiao. In the region about Manchuria the Chinese were establishing their first line of defense, but it was believed that in case of serious Russian invasion they will fall back on the passes in the Great Khingan mountains, which have been strongly fortified. Several thousand Russian troops were moved two miles across the border in the vicinity of Manchuria, and there were repeated clashes in that sector.

Both the United States and Great Britain have rejected the Chinese demand that they surrender their extraterritorial rights in China, but in both cases the project is held out that such action may be taken later when the Nationalist government has progressed so far that there will no longer be need for the foreign courts.

CATIN in a terrific storm over the state lands of the Southwest, the Transcontinental passenger plane, the San Francisco, bound from Albuquerque to Los Angeles, was destroyed practically by a lightning bolt and its five passengers and crew of nine were killed. The dead were Mrs. J. H. Raymond of Glendale, Calif.; A. H. McGaffey of Albuquerque, N. M.; George A. Chubbott, Harris Livermore of Boston and William H. Rogers of New York; passengers; J. H. Stone and A. E. Dettel, pilots; and G. F. Campbell, steward.

Another aviator killed by lightning was Maj. John H. Wood, noted speed pilot and president of the Southern Airways company. His plane exploded over the desert south of Needles, Calif., and he went down to his death with the wreckage. His mechanic escaped with a parachute.

As having a chance for recovery, Jimmy Donlin, crack flyer of the army corps, was practicing for stunts at the Cleveland show when, in a tremendous dive, both wings of his plane crumpled; he went over the side with his parachute and landed unhurt.

Piloted this time by Capt. Ernst Lehmann, the Graf Zeppelin made the return trip to Friedrichshafen with speed and safety. The huge airship was welcomed by premiers and other officials of all the German states and an immense throng of private citizens; President von Hindenburg was prevented from being present by the death of his sister. The Zeppelin's round-the-world flight from its home port was made in 20 days, 4 hours and 18 minutes, establishing a new record.

After conferences at Akron, Ohio, Dr. Hugo Eckener said the Goodyear Zeppelin and German Zeppelin corporations would join in establishing transatlantic dirigible lines. It will require from two to four years to place the ships in operation.

REPUBLICANS of the senate finance committee formally reported to the senate their tariff bill, and the opponents of the measure spent several days jockeying for the best position from which to attack it. The radical Republicans, led by Borah, determined to try to have tariff revision limited to agricultural products, and in this they counted on the support of many Democrats. The radicals also sponsored a joint resolution introduced by Senator Blaine of Wisconsin authorizing all members of congress to have unlimited access to secret corporation income tax returns while the tariff bill is pending. The Democrats through Senator Simmons made it known they would try to obtain the same results by a resolution directing the finance committee to get the income tax information from the treasury.

FOUR hundred officers and men, picked as the best of the army's engineering forces, were ordered by Secretary of War Wood to duty in the jungles of Central America to survey the route of the proposed Nicaragua canal. Their findings and report will go far toward determining whether or not the government will undertake to build that waterway, the estimated cost of which is about a billion dollars. The survey, which will require two years, will be supervised by the intercom command board appointed by President Hoover.

CHICAGO mourns the death of two of her best citizens, Judge Frank Comerford of the Superior court, and William E. Dever, former judge and mayor. Judge Comerford, who was in the prime of life, was justly regarded as one of the city's most valuable jurists—courteous, wise, honest and a determined upholder of the dignity of the courts. Elected to the Illinois legislature when but twenty-six years old, Comerford was expelled from that body because of his attacks on corrupt members. But he was sent back by his constituency. Physical disabilities kept him out of the army when war was declared, but he was active in other ways in his country's service. He was elected to the bench in 1925, and presided in several notable cases.

Mr. Dever, who lived most of his life in Chicago, was classed as a true great citizen. He was a leader of Democrats for many years and his record both as judge and as mayor was excellent.

MRS. CALVIN COULIDGE was given the honor of christening the new light cruiser Northampton Thursday when it was launched at Quincy, Mass. The name of the ship was selected to honor the former President, whose home is in Northampton, Mass. He was unable to be present, however. Secretary Adams represented the Navy department, and Mrs. Coulidge was accompanied by a large delegation of Northampton citizens.

CROCKETT APPOINTED SPARTON DEALER

The New England Distributing Co. announce the appointment of the Crockett's Garage as dealers in Bethel, Me. for the Sparton Equasone radio. Mr. Crockett is enthusiastic over the magnificent qualities of the Sparton.

"Our decision to recommend and sell the Sparton to our customers came after a rigid inspection of this radio. It is enchantingly beautiful, mechanically perfect, and its reproduction is vivid and realistic."

The band pass filter which Sparton introduced has brought rich, full superlative tone. Those who love music and who find expression in its loveliness will be quick to grasp the significance of such a superb instrument. Sparton has revolutionized the entire industry. It has engaged the best talent in America to produce a radio that is America's best.

Critical virtuosity marvel at the clarity and purity in which overtones, resonance and background of music are reproduced. Radio engineers are amazed at its nicety of balance, and the precision of its construction. Sparton has brought forth a radio of which all can say, "This is the set supreme."

The many models in which Sparton radios appear are all of enduring splendor. The new Equasone model 931 is a complete new low-boy electric console of 5 tubes. Model 301 is an exquisitely carved high-boy of pure Italian design. It is powered and as grippingly harmonious as a rare old cello.

It is built for long life, the castings alone weighing approximately 25 pounds.

Has a 6 Gallon Galvanized Iron Tank; doing away with the small size, objectionable glass bottles.

Each burner is equipped with a brass carburetor to regulate the flow. This is not used on other burners, and absolutely does away with air pockets in the oil line.

Ignites without priming, and produces a high temperature flame very quickly.

The Fowler Range Oil Burner is built for long life. Compare its heavy castings, all brass fittings and needle valves with any other burner on the market, and judge for yourself the great difference in durability.

Ancient Property Laws Protected the Weaker

The oldest Greek statute now extant, governing the disposition of "real" property, comes from the island of Crete. This is the law of the city of Gortyna, dating from perhaps B. C. 400. This inscription, the largest existing fragment of any Greek law, came to light less than fifty years ago; for the stones on which it was chiseled had been buried for 2,000 years or more and its discovery made a sensation in the learned world. It was about thirty feet long in its original form; the broken pieces are now scattered in seven museums.

These laws show that more than 2,000 years ago women in this Cretan city could own property. Moreover, the law provided that a husband could not sell or mortgage his wife's property, nor could a son dispose of his mother's property. If a mother dies, says this ancient statute on property, and leaves children, the father has power over her property, but he cannot sell it or mortgage it unless the children consent, when they come of age. Moreover, if the father marries another woman after the first wife's death, the children of the first wife shall have power over their mother's property. Penalties are provided for the violation of any of these provisions.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
L. A. Edwards, Pastor
10:45 Morning Worship. Subject of the sermon by the pastor will be "Unseen Powers."

The state of Maine has during the past week settled a question that has been before the public for some years, viz. what shall we do with our surplus power? Whether or not the voters of the state acted wisely, only time will determine. We know that men of wisdom in economic matters have surveyed the situation and given their verdicts, but, as is natural they have not all agreed.

But is the water power of Maine its only undeveloped resource? Are we getting all that is possible out of our schools? Out of our social contacts? Out of our churches?

Are there not untapped resources in every human life that if developed would greatly enrich, not only the individual but society of which we are a part?

There is an old adage, that it would be well for some of us to ponder, "What I kept I lost, What I gave away I have."
